His playfulness, his tenderness, and his unconditional love are the attributes that are etched within the memories of old. And these attributes are scattered about in the many wondrously woven verses entailed within this book. If you feel as I do about Dogs then this collection of poems is definitely for you. Thank You Lost Towers. :) 2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Lighthearted Look at Canine Companionship By Una poetisa Many poems in this collection made me laugh, and I nodded my head when reading other poems in recognition of doggy behavior experienced in my own home, from snatching food to drinking out of the toilet! Favorites of mine are Perfect Companion, Autumn Walk, Surrogate, and First Time at the Sheep Farm. But every poem is a joy. This book would be great for Dog People. Be sure to get several as stocking stuffers! 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. An Ideal Gift for Your Dog – loving Friends By Indunil Madhusankha And the Tail Wagged on... is a touching collection of poetry which evocatively reflects the most loving and adorable moments that the authors have had with their dog friends. The anthology has no deficiency of the essential characteristics of good poetry such as authenticity, strong emotions, powerful imagery, and thematic richness. Hence, these beautiful and humorous poetic crafts have a plenty to offer in catering to the intellectual recreation of the reader. Thus, the anthology, And the Tail Wagged On... can judiciously be regarded as a handbook of all canine lovers.

"Beautiful, soul warming poetry" And the Tail Wagged On... is both a celebration of the love and an investigation into the leash that binds both dog to human and human to dog. It is also an exploration into the traumas of dog-human ownership as in the unexpected arrival of a fearsome kitten, the ordeal of visiting other dog owned houses and the problems that arise when one is always having to show an alleged natural hunting instincts when facing possums, squirrels or other wild animals. This anthology highlights the problems of human-canine cohabitation exploring the cultural differences of bathing. Canines will bathe once a year, whether they need it or not, while humans seem to get extremely dirty and have to wash on a daily basis. As well as investigating the age old question as to whether it is more polite to go to the bathroom inside the house or in the garden like a savage, which humans seem to prefer. Finally, the poems in this anthology prove beyond doubt that even with the communication and cultural issues the human-canine relationship is always a special one. This anthology features the work of: John Aylesworth, D.M.
