In this book, Jose Sanchez Boudy, Professor Emeritus at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and author of more than one hundred books on issues of language and Cuban traditions, presents us with the most extensive collection ever published of cuban jokes-before and after the Castros, including many on Fidel and Raul Castro. With illustrations of cuban cartoonists.

With the collaboration of Professor Alberto Hernandez-Chioldes and the book s editor, Juan Manuel Salvat, this book collects popular Cuban jokes reflecting the time of the Republic, revolution and exile. Also included are humorous writings that reflect the character of the Cuban people who can laugh off the misfortune of these years of totalitarian regime on their Island. It is a book everyone will enjoy. --Ediciones UniversalAbout the AuthorDr. Jose Sanchez-Boudy was born in Havana, Cuba, and is professor emeritus at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.
