Bonnie Valentine : My Cat Wants Me Dead before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised My Cat Wants Me Dead:

But the intro was better than the whole book. I only gave it an okay because I don't want to hurt the author's feelings and I love cats and believe too that they are out to get us! LOL.... Also unfortunately I found the stories a bit too raw or crude like the joking of a 10 yr old boy. I am not easily offended even by books full of unnecessary graphic sex or cussing every other word. But there was something sort of yucky about the way some of the stories were written. Not everyone's cat jumps onto their anus nor claws at the men's privates, for example. And perhaps that is the heart of the disappointment for me: It is too certain that all of us have had all of these experiences with our cats. there are not enough stories about other cats and humans experiences and most of the stories are never fleshed out. Great potential but not enough effort to write a really good story.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Tongue in CheekBy LindaI hope you don't read this e book if you are considering adopting a cat or kitten. I am a cat lover and have cats since a young child. None of my cats where like all of these paragraphs. But as a tongue in cheek compilation of cat traits it does seem to cover all the things that can be so frustrating owning this Alien creature that came to earth in the time of the Egyptians. I love all of their fuzzy loveliness in spite of their faults.2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. My Cat Wants Me DeadBy Kathy BikseyI found this book to be hilarious!! It was as if Bonnie wrote this book about my cat. All cat lovers should read this. Cats are such complicated creatures...yet Bonnie depicts their antics in such a way that you can't help but laugh and love these little balls of fur.

The fact that a television show called My Cat from Hell even exists should be a warning to humans everywhere. One journey inside the feline mind can cause fear and confusion. Yet, many of us still love cats and even cross over into the role of the crazy cat lady/person. Why? We are being manipulated by creatures one-tenth our size. Once referred to as Felis domesticus, the cat is anything but domestic. Even cats forced to stay indoors stare out the window, yearning to be on a killing spree taking out every small mammal within a quarter-mile radius. They scowl at humans, shun us, communicate obscenities through growls and tail flicks, shred our favorite things, shit in a box (which they demand be kept clean at all times), vomit on the floor, bring dead or half-dead animals in the house, piss on the wall, scratch, bite, howl, and insist on a full food bowl day and night. Yet we love them and live to serve them. The truth is, most cats are better equipped to survive than humans. They don't really need anyone: just the means to go out on their own. The reason they stay with humans is that we provide them gourmet foods, toys, treats, supply them with soft comfy places to sleep, and the opportunity to torment us. Cats still believe that they are the deities that the ancient Egyptians made them years ago. We are only to serve and worship them. Once in a while, a cat will show affection to a human, but it is all for its own pleasure and not for the comfort of the caretaker – ever.
