He comes across as diligent, humorous, and incorruptible. My problem with the book is that there is too much repetition throughout, and that most of the chapters are just short musings, more suitable for his famed facebook page than for a full-length book. The most interesting parts of the chief's career (like his time as an undercover operative) are just barely touched upon, while he devoted more ink to less interesting topics, like his critics who allege that he uses the proceeds of items bearing his likeness for personal use.If you like Mr. Oliver's rants (and judging by the popularity of his facebook profile, a lot of people do), that's fine, but I believe you can more than get your fill of the man's chestnuts online, rather than springing for a book that reads more like a compilation of greatest hits, as opposed to something more in-depth and worth collecting in one digest.2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. (J/K....kinda...sorta)By D.L. DuttonIf you want to see how a police department and a community are supposed to be then read this wonderful book! I am prud to say I am a 'Crazy Cousin' of Chief Oliver's and I follow his F.B. page. Mostly excerpts from the last 3 years of the departments Facebook page, this book has it all! You will laugh out loud one second and be moved to tears the next by his thoughtful insights regarding the elderly and the veterans of this great country. His no nonsense advice to the mopes who come afoul of his officers will amaze you while making you smile! I can only hope this is volume 1 of many more to come and the proceeds from this book couldn't go to a better cause! Do yourself a favor and purchase and read this book ASAP!0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. 50 Shades of MoperyBy Dootels14Chief Oliver writes a very enjoyable book on common sense and how a Police Dept should be run. Not only does he and his Officers lead by example, but the whole community seems to be on the same page. I retired from Law Enforcement after 26 years and if I lived closer (from NY) I would love to be part of his Team. His Officers are as devoted as he is, not only to arrest the bad guys/girls (which is fun enough) but to watch out everyday for the Children and Seniors (who we can learn a ton of things from if we take the time to listen). While I was reading this book and laughing, it also made me realize how far off course we are from where we should be as a society. People need to pull their heads up from their Mobile devices and look around and interact with your neighbors. Notice what's going on- who needs some guidance and who needs to be watched by the PD. Telling a child how great they arE doing

If you like no-nonsense crime-busting, straight-shooting opinions, and offbeat humor, you'll love this greatest-hits collection from surprise Internet sensation Chief David A. Oliver of the Brimfield Police Department . . .He's been called "the coolest police chief in existence," but David Oliver says he's just doing his job—and still doesn't understand how his small-town police department's Facebook page attracted a worldwide audience. Readers from as far away as Australia, Ireland, and Hong Kong, and from every state in the U.S. "stop by" daily for a virtual cup of coffee with the chief. Whether he's busting "mopes" (old-fashioned cop slang for criminal types), comforting a teen runaway, or promoting school safety, Oliver's folksy and feisty style connects with readers. He tackles tough issues: The invasion of Meth and other drugs. Drunk driving. School shootings. He champions personal responsibility, and chastises politicians. "I have a low tolerance for nonsense," Oliver says.This book collects the best of the chief's politically incorrect essays, delightfully sarcastic letters to criminals, humorous crime reports, inspirational quotes, and more.Enter the colorful world of the Brimfield PD . . . Where you do NOT want to win a pair of "silver bracelets" and "a trip to the bed-and-breakfast" . . . Where drug mopes are pursued by a "Meth Whisperer" . . . Where dispatch calls might include an APB ("All-Pig Bulletin") . . . And where kids caught bicycling safely are issued tickets—for free ice cream. If you're not a mope, you'll fit right in!David Oliver will donate all of his income from this book to the Chief Oliver Foundation, a not-for-profit organization that distributes funds to police department charitable programs and assists juvenile survivors of sexual assault.
