Leigh Anne Jasheway-Bryant : Not Guilty by Reason of Menopause before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Not Guilty by Reason of Menopause:

Cute but not worth the price.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. I'm Still LaughingBy PMWIt's hard to type with tears running down my face from laughing so hard!This book arrived in today's mail and it's fabulous! I can't wait to share it with friends and encourage them to buy it for their friends and relatives. It's hard to say which is my favorite because most of them could have been based on my personal story, but I must admit I was rather fond of the one that said, "You wear a miniskirt and high heels to buy your mom's bladder control underwear so the cashiers don't think they're for you.". My 88-year-old mom just moved into a nursing home so they now provide items like this. But I clearly remember a cell phone conversation I had with my mom about a year ago from the Depends aisle in Walgreen's confirming exactly what she wanted in terms of size, absorbency, brand, etc. It's hard to be heard when you're whispering into a cell phone to a woman who's hearing is starting to go along with a few other systems!Keep up the good work. You have so much to offer to the world in ways that make people's lives brighter. You certainly brighten mine!0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. I'm so glad someone finally wrote this!By Louann EdwardsThis book is too funny for words--which is probably why the pictures are so hysterical! I can't believe someone finally wrote a book on this topic that doesn't sound like a medical encyclopedia. It just helps you laugh at what you really can't escape, and so many women will experience. Having this book sure helps you feel like you can live through this and survive--but I do have one warning: be careful where you read it, because we almost got thrown out of the store we were laughing so hard! I'm buying several copies for my friends. They can have a portable fan in one hand and Leigh Anne's book in the other!

you might be menopausal if . . . You buy your antiperspirant in six-packs. You hire a towel boy. You know the calcium content in a pitcher of piña coladas. You can pick your colon out of a lineup. Tackling “the change of life” with bravery and a wry sense of humor, comedienne Leigh Anne Jasheway-Bryant celebrates the lighter (and hopefully cooler) side of menopause in this daring little book. Combining laugh-out-loud musings with retro photographs and bold graphics, Not Guilty by Reason of Menopause may make you laugh, cry, swear, sweat, binge, and steal--all at the same time. And the book doubles as a fan in a pinch.

“Any woman familiar with the exciting realities of menopause--and the ways it can whack us upside the head--will love this very funny book.” --Jan Eliot, creator of the comic strip Stone Soup “Leigh Anne will make you laugh so hard about hot flashes and hormone rages, you’ll tinkle in your pants or shoot soda out your nose!” --Laurie Notaro, author of The Idiot Girl’s Action Adventure Club and There’s A Slight Chance I Might Be Going To Hell “The perfect groovy girlfriend gift.” --Dotsie Bregel, founder of the National Association of Baby Boomer Women
From the Publisher
A collection of 50 wry ruminations about menopause brought to life by vintage photographs. * From the winner of the Erma Bombeck humor writing competition (for an essay about how the author's first mammogram caught on fire).

THE AUTHOR SCOOP
If you had a superpower, what would it be? I do have a superpower – I can make people laugh when they’d rather cry. We all have this superpower, but I have the outfit that goes with it.
When did you know you were a writer? When I found myself scribbling on the walls at home with a purple crayon and demanding my mother not to wipe it off because I might be famous some day and she’d be sorry.
Are you “six degrees” of separation away from anyone famous? I’m two degrees away from Kevin Bacon! I was on The Leeza Gibbons show with Mo Gaffney who used to play the therapist on Mad About You and was on an episode in which Kevin Bacon appeared as well.
How do you cheer up when you’re feeling down? I take my three wiener dogs and the two loaner wiener dogs from down the street for a walk. If walking five wiener dogs doesn’t put a smile on your face, you might need medication.
What did you want to be when you grew up? Secretary of the Interior. Then I found out it didn’t involve throw pillows and wallpaper.
