Not as good as I expected, but not bad either.By D. KempSome good stories. Some bad ones. None of the driveway moments that caught my attention during the years I listened. I'm going to donate this copy to my local library for others to enjoy.2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. They let me go....By Jerry RI was disappointed because although a few stories were really great - many weren't. As I listened I realized that the stories selected were important to the journalist who reported it; that's how they were selected. Not to the listeners necessarily.

Stories from the National Public Radio archives celebrate moms and motherhood. Stories so compelling you'll stay in your car to hear them through—even if you're sitting in your own driveway. Wait Wait...Don't Tell Me! host Peter Sagal captures your attention with colorful tales for and about moms. Heard in All Things Considered, Weekend Edition, News Notes, and other NPR programs, these stories and more are for moms, moms-to-be, and anyone who has ever known or had a mother.
