We have read it many times this Christmas season in anticipation of Santa's arrival. We have given this book as a seasonal gift to other grand parents to share with their grand kids. Love this book and its message that generosity and ingenuity can overcome life's obstacles.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Clever, warm, funnyBy Nancy PorterDouglas Coffin is uniquely clever and funny. This is a warm, humorous, and original story that can be appreciated by people of all ages. You won't be disappointed!!0 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy Edlira MoskIf you love Maine you will love this book. Great illustrations.

Its Christmas Eve in Maine, and Miss Moody and her boarders Millie and Emery as well as her pup Smittens are all tucked into bed, when out in the barnyard there arises such a clatter! Turns out that Santas reindeer have come down ill and need a chance to recuperate. But what of the toys for the good girls and boys? Thanks to some old-fashioned down-on-the-farm ingenuity, Santa gets back on schedule with the help of a motley but willing crew like none youve ever dreamed of. Color Illustrations

A delightful variation on the Santa Claus legend, in which not Rudolph but a whole gaggle of critters save the day, or rather the eve, a.k.a. The Night before Christmas. - Dahlov Ipcar
From the Inside Flap
Who figured out that lobsters (bugs), clams (gobs), and periwinkles (snorts) are good to eat? Mainers.
Who developed ear muffs? A Mainer.
Who invented a steam-powered car that outsold all gasoline-powered cars for years? A Mainer.
Who can plow the back forty on a hot-wired 1965 John Deere with a Caterpillar gearbox and an Ikea seat? A Mainer.
So if your reindeer were to take sick and your sleigh got forced down and you had several billion toys to deliver before dawn, whose farmyard would you want to land in? I would add A Mainer!
here dont leave any doubt in their minds
About the Author
Douglas Coffin, with a background in graphic design, produced his nationally syndicated cartoonstrip Fletchers Landing in the early 1980s. He published editorial cartoons in a weekly paper for 20 years while also working as a commercial illustrator, typographer and art director. In 1987 he began his career as a lettercutter in stone, hand-carving memorials, donor walls and building dedications. He also demonstrates and teaches the history of letterforms and the alphabet. ONE MAINE CHRISTMAS EVE originally appeared, in a slightly altered state, in 1978 in The Maine Times. This is his first book. Douglas lives in Stockton Springs, Maine.
