ButlerGene Hill is just an outstanding writer for all November duck hunters who have stepped into that deep hole and felt their waders fill up, or who have emptied both barrels at a going away Pheasant and never cut feather or have lost that special fly on a branch you just can't reach. If you can't relate to his tall tails you've never gotten your boots dirty.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Hill brought back lost memories of my own life. I really like the way he writes and gets his points across. I also like the short story way of writing. Would recommend it to everyone who ever liked to hunt or just take a good walk in the woods. I would like to find the rest of his books for my ebook so I could buy them0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Great read for the true outdoorsmanBy LauraThis was a gift for my husband and he loves it! Great read for the true outdoorsman,

Guaranteed to spark memories of enjoyable time spent afield, this classic collection of stories from well-loved authors Gene Hill and Steve Smith captures the essence and humor of the outdoor life. Whether they're writing about ice fishing, calling ducks, dealing with gunsmiths, or dragging the unwilling dog to the vet, these two wits are sure to entertain. And when it comes to recalling those all-too-abundant missed shots, close calls, and ones that got away, readers might just learn a thing or two about the art of looking at the truth from a variety of angles, as Gene Hill offers irrefutable proof that the judgment and memory of the outdoorsman improves, like a fine wine, with time.

Both Gene Hill and Steve Smith possess a puckish wit and a remarkable faculty for putting it into words. . . . Just reading one of their books is as satisfying as doubling on grouse or landing a fresh-run steelhead on a 5X tippet. --Mark Dilts, *The Drummer*Riotously funny . . . highly recommended. --*Gun Dog Magazine*Both Gene Hill and Steve Smith possess a puckish wit and a remarkable faculty for putting it into words. . . .
