Before my dog passed away, I loved to read her the stories while she was wrapped in a towel on my lap after a bath. Highly recommend! 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. A great collection of "tales" by some unique authors. By Lindsay A. O'Neil Great fun; my grandsons I laughed out loud at several of the canines' "essays". Charlie, Rufus Moonbeam are our favorite storytellers, but they all have unique writing styles and provide us with a great take on life as it applies to each of them as individuals and their place in their human's daily routines. It has become a "coffee table" book because they (and me) like re-reading many of their escapades. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. great gift! funny! By Chasyah My best friend is a huge dog-lover and rescuer. this was part of a birthday gift for her and it's not cheesy, it's actually funny. Written from the dogs' perspective -- you'd swear your dog had a part in it.

Dear Human: Your dog probably puzzles you. Most of us do that. And most of us would like to keep things as they are: humans in the dark, dogs with the upper hand. But we dogs are about to let you in a little secret. Okay, a lot of secrets. We graduated first in our obedience class three times. This should tell you something. Puppies know that they're being cute. They're using you. We don't sound anything like those silly voices you use to imitate us. We hate those ridiculous names you give some of us. Moonbeam is not a dignified name for a mutt. You might want to check your herb garden for fertilizer. We are only wearing this stupid birthday hat so we can get some cake. No self-respecting dog cares about his birthday. We are not spoiled, certainly not in comparison to teenage girls. We are in charge of the house. We let you pretend that you are. We'd be lost without you. We love you. It's all in our new book, Things Your Dog Doesn't Want You To Know, as told to humans Hy Conrad and Jeff Johnson. Even Steve Martin (yes, THAT Steve Martin) raves about us! Inside you'll find revelations such as the reason we at the sofa (leather tastes very similar to rawhide), and what we really think of the costumes you dress us up in. I'm not alone. Ten other courageous canines have stepped forward to tell you what your dog won't -- every last dirty, hairy bit of it. If you have dogs, love dogs, or have ever been baffled by a dog, this book is a must-have.

"I laughed, my dog howled." - Steve Martin "This is the perfect book for anyone who owns a dog, has ever owned one, or knows what a dog is. These guys made me laugh out loud -- and captured my heart at the same time. The book is simply irresistible." - Tony Shalhoub, star of the TV series MONK "If everyone owned a dog, we would have world peace. If everyone reads this book, they will go and get a dog and we will have taken a big step in the right direction. So this book can save the world. It will definitely change your life." - Terrence McNally, playwright "Hy Conrad and Jeff Johnson must have been dogs in another life. Their wry and witty insights into the minds of dogs are downright uncanny. Things Your Dog Doesn't Want You to Know is hilarious and sensational." - Rory Freeman, author of Skinny Bitch "STARRED REVIEW-"A delightful and amusing collection of comical canine "truths"...A whimsical delight for dog lovers everywhere, this book will charm and remind readers why they fell in love with Rover to begin with." - Publishers Weekly "These entertaining authors know and love dogs and give them appealing voices...it's all about the stories." - Library Journal "At times poignant, at times hilarious, this canine tell-all will let even the most experienced dog owners in on the secret world of our best friends." - Booklist "I read it with my whole family and everyone couldn't stop laughing." - Colinda Von Hollen-NetGalley "The authors were able to really capture the goodness and innocence of dogs. You can't be mad at them when you see the special way they see the world and their own actions. All they want to do is please their owners... but sometimes their naive actions don't get the exact outcome they expected. And they can't wrap their heads around it. Just like us. LOL." - Karla Vollkopf-NetGalley "So, if you love dogs and enjoy humor, you'll love Things Your Dog Doesn't Want You to Know. I did." - Not Just Nonsense "Hysterically on point and sweet. I can see many of these things being thought by my own 4 legged family members. A great gift for the dog lover in your life." - Shannon Martinez-NetGalley "The book is written from the point of view of the dogs, which makes it all the more funny. You get a rather comical look at what might go on in their brains." - Just Loomin' n' Readin' "What a charming and funny book this was. A very entertaining and light read. As a dog lover I found myself chuckling and nodding in agreement at some of the antics and views of the dogs" - Chocolate Chunky Munkie "This is a cute book in how the author makes you think the dogs are talking to you and telling you their quips about life." - Kathy's Scraps "If you've ever wondered what your dog thinks about sharing his life with you and, if you're like me and have created your own "voice" for your dog already, you'll find this book is belly-laughing funny. I read it while stuck between flights at an airport and got a number of concerned looks from passengers hoping they wouldn't be sitting next to this crazy woman laughing hysterically while reading about dogs." - Fit as Fido "This is the perfect book for dog lovers of all ages...Each dog has a distinct personality and you will find yourself wondering what your dog is thinking about. A+ for a fun, beautifully crafted book." - Maria's Space About the Author Hy Conrad has spent his career writing for television -- he's one of the original writers for Monk, the USA series, and he was nominated three times for the Edgar Award for best TV Mystery episode. he has written a mystery series published by Sterling. Currently he is a writer and consulting producer on the TV show "White Collar." Jeff Johnson spent most of his life working in advertising, for giants such as JWT and DWBB and prestigious creative shops, and he has created successful campaigns in nearly every consumer category. He wrote THE HOURGLASS SOLUTION: A BOOMER'S GUIDE TO THE REST OF YOUR LIFE.
