A new appreciation for SantaBy dbSaw this book on a rack in the airport traveling through St. Louis - as another "santas helper" I picked it up just for kicks.What a great book! The stories are powerful - I too have noticed the "power" of Santa - although I have had nowhere near the experience Mr. Goodman has.My wife roped me into the gig about 10 years ago - before we were married - for her office childrens party - and I never gave it up. My Mom made me a suit a few years ago, and it gets used - I have been to the church, the karate school, and a few other places - it seems that every year at our home party I get a call to go to the office and Santa always pops in while I am out - and my son hasn't quite figured that out yet. He will soon I am sure and then he will have to join the ranks of the elite "santas helpers" like his old man - a family tradition worth passing on!

Mr. Goodman - thanks for a great, inspirational, fun, touching book - as you shared - there is great power in being Santa, but also great responsibility. I am proud to wear the suit and share the love Santa embodies. Merry Christmas!

By Regina Pounds
I read this collection of true stories, told by a real Santa's helper, during the month of May. The first story drew me in and I found it touching and heart-warming. Now, Santa and all of his helpers take their jobs very seriously...and so does Mr. Goodman, even while he retains a wonderful sense of humour during those moments when pitfalls make his work - never a chore - a bit more difficult than one might think. This is not at all a book about Christmas. It is about something universal: the love for children and the wonder of children.

Mr. Goodman has a talent for story-telling which adds to the pleasure of reading his tales. I highly recommend this book to anyone looking for something to read that entertains, lifts the spirit, and makes one smile.

By Many Blessings
I am Jewish and I loved reading the stories in this book. Some made me laugh, some made me cry, many inspired me AND all made me feel good. Santa R.C. Clifton is a very good man. Every year at Christmas he voluntarily dons a special red suit, and spreads good feelings for children of all ages, often travelling by car, truck or jetplane. R.C. shares his love of children and wonderful sense of humor with all of us in his memorable stories. This is great for year round giving and especially for the December Holidays. Adults and older children will love it!

Sixteen hilarious and sometimes heartbreaking stories told by one of Santa's most experienced helpers. Robert Goodman's career as one of Santa's most devoted helpers began oddly enough in Vietnam, where he was ordered to put on the velvet suit for the first time. The experience was so gratifying for him and those he came in contact with, that the experience began a lifelong commitment. People of all ages will enjoy this tribute to the hundreds of thousands of Santa's helpers that put on the suit every year.
