Brad Houston : Too Young to Die before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Too Young to Die:

A collection of humorous yarns: chiefly the escapades of a newly married family "Doc" coping with the weird ways of prairie folk, customs, and weather in the '50s.

About the AuthorDr. Brad Houston, a survivor from the times when the "Country Doc" did it all, from the "cut 'em up" trade to "storking", to acting as the local "shrink", and even inquesting as a pre- "Da Vinci". A family doctor, writer, hiker and back country skier, gardener and sailor, he exercises his dry wit in "Too Young To Die". Visit the author's web site
